Full Details

Overview

Craig Yr Odyn is a pleasantly situated agricultural holding extending to approximately 24.27 acres, contained in one convenient block, accessed off an unclassified adopted highway, with private track leading to the main yard area.

The yard benefits from an excellent range of modern steel portal framed general purpose farm buildings, utilised as general storage of machinery and feedstuff, a lambing shed and loose housing, with a further useful covered area to the rear and sheep handling facility.

The land is gently sloping in nature and is contained within a number of easy to manage enclosures, all stock proof fenced with hedgerow boundaries and benefitting from strategically placed water troughs. The land is currently laid to pasture and capable of growing excellent crops of grass and long-grazing period. The land is classified as part freely draining slightly acid but base-rich soils and part freely draining slightly acid loamy soils according to Soilscales.

The property benefits from a rural and scenic setting, with commanding views over Castell Carreg Cennen making it highly attractive to buyers seeking well-established, traditional agricultural holding, with scope for a range of uses, subject to obtaining the necessary planning consents.

Location

The property is set on the edge of Trap, taking advantage of the wonderful surrounding scenery for which Trap and the surrounding area is renowned for, and is approached via a wide entrance lane off an unclassified adopted highway, a short distance from the B4302 highway.

The market town of Llandeilo and the A40 lies 3 miles to the north, being home to a comprehensive range of local amenities and services, to include eateries, cafes, independent shops, convenience stores, bilingual primary and secondary schools, medical centre, together with rail links to the Heart of Wales Line.

The larger town of Ammanford lies approximately 4 miles to the south, with a comprehensive range of services, whilst the M4 at J.49 (Pont Abraham), can be reached within 9.5 miles (20 minutes), providing access along the M4 corridor to the city of Swansea and beyond.
